Apparatus and Method to Standardize Data System Interfaces

5

ABSTRACT

Bank business units are described as objects comprising the data for a business unit and the algorithms used to interact with the data. A common infrastructure which include JZEE, event management and/or an object request broker compliant with the common object request broker architecture (COBRA) and JZEE architecture is used to invoke objects in response to service requests initiated by client applications.

10